

September Happenings At The Mazer School of Religious Studies

The administrators and teachers of the Mazer School of Religious Studies are gearing up for a new school year after returning refreshed by their summer vacations and the participation by eight of them in August in the 16th Annual CAJE Conference where they had the opportunity to enrich their professional experience.

This fall, Mrs. Vivian Finkel will assume the role of the Curriculum Coordinator for the Elementary School. Her vast experience and enthusiasm has been and will continue to be a great asset to the school.

Mr. Misha Avramoff will assume the position of High School Curriculum Coordinator this year. He has been with the Mazer School for 15 years, proving himself an expert on all aspects of high school life and a mentor to our students as they become active in Jewish communal life.

Sherr Institute Shabbat Lunch and Lecture October 5

The first Shabbat lecture sponsored by the Sherr Institute of Adult Jewish Studies and hosted by the Men's Club of the Park Avenue Synagogue will take place on Saturday, October 5th at 12:30 p.m.

His Excellency Harry Schwartz, Ambassador to the U.S. from South Africa, will discuss "The New South Africa," the evolving political and social changes taking place there and their meaning for and impact on the South African Jewish community.

The cost of the Shabbat lunch is $20 per person. Please call the synagogue office immediately to make your reservation for the lunch and lecture if you have not done so already.

First Sisterhood Open Meeting Tuesday, October 22

The Sisterhood of the Park Avenue Synagogue will begin its new program year with a very timely topic: "Israel's Legitimate Rights to Judea, Samaria, and the Gaza District" at its first open meeting on Tuesday, October 22nd at 1 p.m.

Its guest speaker will be Edward M. Siegel, Esq., an attorney specializing in corporate and security law, an active member of the Zionist Organization of America, and president of the Louis D. Brandeis Society for Zionist Lawyers.

Mr. Siegel is a graduate of Columbia College and Law School, was a Harlan Fisk Stone scholar, and an editor of the Columbia Law Review.

Plan to attend this most timely and interesting program!

W.E.G. To Hold Two Program Events This Month

"Jewish Women of Note and Their Inspirations"

On Monday evening, October 7th, the Women's Evening Group will hold its first open meeting of the new year. There will be a panel of three women from the fields of science, law, and religion who represent "Jewish women of note." They will discuss how they have been inspired by Jewish women of the past and other personal motivating factors, as well as how their Jewish backgrounds and values relate to their careers and family lives.

The three female panelists will be:

- Professor Charlotte Russell, professor of chemistry and biochemistry, City College, CUNY
- The Hon. Myriam Altman, Justice of the Supreme Court, the State of New York.
- Rabbi Melissa F. Crespy, our new Assistant Rabbi.

These three women will be able to provide an overview of both the changing role of women in their fields over time as well as the view of a female pioneer in the Conservative movement.

A question and answer period will follow their talk.

Refreshments will be served at 7:30 p.m. and the program will begin at 8 p.m.

All members of the congregation are invited to attend what most certainly will be an interesting program.

Men's Club New Members Cocktail Party October 8

The Men's Club will host a cocktail party on Tuesday evening, October 8th at 8 p.m. to greet and get to know its new members. The party will be open to all Men's Club members and new Park Avenue Synagogue members. Mr. G., the CBS weatherman, will be the guest speaker that evening.

Join the Men's Club now so you can attend its new members cocktail party, discuss the weather with Mr. G., and make new friends.

Friday Night Service October 25

The Women's Evening Group will hold its annual Friday Night Service on October 25th at 8 p.m. Its guest speaker will be Harriet S. Bogart, director of the New York regional office of the Anti-Defamation League. Her office and staff serve New York City, Westchester, Rockland, and Putnam Counties.

She will discuss the new anti-Semitism and racism, giving an overview of the latest neo-Nazi groups and their activities, the legal methods used to combat these groups, and the educational programs designed to thwart these hate groups' attempts to attract young members. She also will comment on the recent Crown Heights confrontations from the point of view of one of the parties involved in trying to ameliorate the situation.

Ms. Bogart is a graduate of Northwestern University's Medill School of Journalism and holds a master's degree in information science from Northern Illinois University.

Her work focuses on civil rights and bias related issues, as well as multicultural education and prejudice reduction strategies. She has, for several years, initiated and directed interfaith and intergroup dialogues to reduce intergroup tensions and develop a climate of better understanding and respect for cultural and religious differences.

A native of Chicago, Ms. Bogart also lived in St. Louis before coming to New York. She has developed programs that address social policy issues on AIDS, immigration, and public education. She has trained others in coalition building skills, conflict resolution, and facilitation skills.

Ms. Bogart recently was appointed to the newly-formed Bias Hotline Advisory Council of the City's Human Rights Commission.

She will address the congregation after the service and an Oneg Shabbat will take place on the Lower Level.

All members of the congregation, their friends and relatives are invited to hear a knowledgeable speaker on a topic important to all of us.

Simhat Bat

Beginning a new Jewish year has made me reflect on the beginning of human life and how Judaism celebrates it. Most of us are aware of how the Jewish people welcomes a baby boy into its midst — through the Brit Milah ceremony — a ritual circumcision which enters a Jewish boy into the covenant with God established so long ago by our ancestor Abraham.

We are less aware, however, of welcoming ceremonies for Jewish girls because they have, for the most part, been less emphasized and less elaborate. Traditionally, a baby girl has been named in the synagogue on a Torah-reading day (Monday, Thursday, and Shabbat) soon after her birth. Her father receives an aliyah to the Torah, after which a blessing is recited over mother and child, and the girl's name is officially announced to the congregation. Today, in some synagogues, both mother and father (and baby girl!) are called to the Torah for the aliyah and the blessing, and often a kiddush is held in honor of the baby's birth. The traditional naming ceremony is beautiful and lets the community know there's a new Jewish girl in our midst!

But many people with a heightened appreciation for women's equality have amplified the welcoming celebration to express in poetic and ritual terms that their daughter has entered the special Jewish covenant. This ceremony has come to be known as "Simhat Bat" — "The Rejoicing over a Daughter." It is often celebrated in the parents' home where members of the family and community are invited both for the ceremony and a meal afterwards. The ceremony is sometimes celebrated on the eighth day after birth (paralleling the Brit Milah). But the 31st day of life is also an appropriate time for this naming and covenant ceremony. It can be creative, since there is no established liturgy for it, and often includes blessings, verses from the Psalms which mention children, and the inclusion of female heroines from the Bible. (I have copies of various ceremonies and would be delighted to help a couple create their own Simhat Bat.) The ceremony expresses the miracle of birth and the parents' gratefulness for the new life of their child. Simhat Bat is a wonderful way to celebrate the birth of a daughter. The creation of a new ceremony for baby girls affirms that our Jewish tradition is ever renewing itself, pulsating with vitality, and enriching our lives.

Rabbi Lincoln Elected Vice President of the Synagogue Council of America

Rabbi David H. Lincoln has been elected a national vice president of the Synagogue Council of America. The SCA, founded in 1926, represents the rabbinic and congregational organizations of Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform Jewry and serves four million congregational members.

Rabbi Lincoln has represented the SCA at important meetings of the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations and participated in special gatherings of the SCA with the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, the National Council of Churches, the International Jewish Committee on Interreligious Consultations (IJCIC), and has been the SCA's non-governmental representative (NGO) at the United Nations.

Rabbi Lincoln will participate in the decision-making process of the SCA's Executive Committee and Board of Governors to determine special projects and programs to strengthen religious Judaism in America.

W.E.G. To Sponsor Level II of the Women's Financial Information Workshop

The Women's Evening Group will sponsor Level II of the Women's Financial Information Workshop Series, in conjunction with AARP, the American Association of Retired Persons, on six evenings: October 21 and 28; November 4, 12, 18 & 25 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the synagogue. This will be a highly intensive program available only to 35 women who participated in the Level I series given in the spring of 1990.

The cost is $25 for all materials and literature and reservations will be taken on a first come, first served basis. Those eligible can preregister by sending a check made payable to WEG to the synagogue office in care of WEG.

October Happenings At The Mazer School of Religious Studies

The following events will take place in October in the elementary and high schools:

Elementary School:

- On Tuesday, October 8th at 5:30 p.m., the parents and students of the Zayin grade will participate in the first study seminar for this year. Dr. Herbert Nieberg, a psychologist who specializes in adolescent and family therapy, will lead the discussion on: "The Bar/Bat Mitzvah Year, the Agony and Ecstasy."
- On Tuesday, October 15th, there will be a parent/teacher curriculum meeting at which time parents will meet their children's teachers and will be informed about the class programs for the year.
- On Saturday, October 25th from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, there will be the first parent/student "Together" program for the Daled grade.
- On Wednesday, October 30th at 7:30 p.m., the Zayin grade parents will meet with the clergy to discuss the Bar/Bat Mitzvah year.

High School:

- On Wednesday, October 2nd, there will be a student-faculty dinner, prepared by the students, followed by a guest speaker.
